Jungle Seasons

In the heart of the jungle, four friends lived. They were Spring the Monkey, Summer the Elephant, Autumn the Parrot, and Winter the Tiger. Each friend was named after a season, and each had a special role. Spring the Monkey loved to play in the blooming flowers. Summer the Elephant enjoyed splashing in the river to cool off. Autumn the Parrot liked to collect colorful leaves. Winter the Tiger loved the quiet of the cold season. One day, they decided to celebrate the changing seasons. They planned a big party where each friend would share their favorite season. Spring the Monkey started by decorating the jungle with beautiful flowers. Summer the Elephant filled the river with fresh water. Autumn the Parrot gathered the most colorful leaves. Winter the Tiger brought a cool breeze. The party was a success, and the friends learned to appreciate each other's seasons. They realized that every season is special in its own way. From then on, they celebrated the changing seasons every year, making the jungle a vibrant and happy place all year round.
